Welcome to AHCOPA’s 2018 Annual Report. This is a time where I like to pause and reflect on our journey as an organization. In what direction are we heading? How far have we grown? Who was impacted by our work? In what ways did we provide insight and thoughtful leadership in the housing counseling industry? Who can we partner with to provide our clients with a more wholistic experience as we help them achieve their housing goals? 2018 was a year where we focused on serving as advocates for our clients and our annual report exhibits that work.

Working with our clients has given us the opportunity to bear witness to joyful moments and sad, dishonorable experiences. A notable experience was a Philadelphia Police Officer that fell behind on his mortgage payments following a serious injury. He first contacted a mortgage relief company based in California and paid them more than $9,000 for intervention services that they never initiated on his behalf. Through AHCOPA’s foreclosure prevention program he obtained a modification with his lender. In this report, you will read more about a diverse group of clients who generously shared similar stories of their hardships and triumphs.

I want to express our appreciation for the support of the institutions that back us, strengthening our capacity to serve more people in a consistent and admirable manner. The City of Philadelphia’s Division of Housing and Community Development and the Pennsylvania Housing Finance Agency are our largest supporters. They deserve special recognition for their commitment to making provisions for the housing counseling industry and respecting its ability to create stable opportunities for homeownership. I am also very grateful for our private funders, particularly our first time supporters, which include TD Bank Foundation, Allstate Insurance Foundation, Vanguard Foundation, Farmers Insurance, Ocwen Financial Services and the M&T Bank Charitable Foundation.

Our notable results are the fruit of the hard work put forth by the AHCOPA Staff, volunteers and partners from the non-profit, lending and real estate communities. It was great to see many of you this past fall at our celebration commemorating the legacy of Mildred Brown, our retired President of the Board of Directors.

We look forward to an exciting 2019!

Kenneth Bigos
In November 2018, AHCOPA honored the inspiring work and legacy of Mildred Brown, our Former Board President, during our annual party. For three decades Mildred committed herself to helping improve the lives of her neighbors by serving ACORN and the Affordable Housing Centers of Pennsylvania. She demonstrated the high regard of her peers during her tenure as the National President of ACORN and managing the ACORN Leadership School.

As the Legislative Representative for ACORN, Mildred tirelessly advocated for a range of significant social issues, including a raise of the minimum wage rate; access to homeownership in urban communities; and immigration reform.

Her most enduring achievement may be the vision of creating AHCOPA to ensure that housing counseling services remain a valuable resource and option for those who need guidance in achieving their housing goals.

Mildred, we will miss you. Thank you for your many years of service!
In October 2017, AHCOPA expanded our operations with the opening of a second office in Northeast Philadelphia. This area of the city previously lacked the vital resources of a housing advisory agency - despite significant increases in foreclosure rates and declining or stagnant property values.

Funding for our Northeast Philadelphia operations was made possible by the PHARE grant administered by the Pennsylvania Housing Finance Agency. Our presence in Northeast Philadelphia is further bolstered by our involvement with the North East Services Team, a coalition of non-profit organizations and churches that are dedicated to improving the quality of life for area residents. Through this coalition, we have been able to mobilize outreach events to assist households impacted by the government shutdown and distribute food, diapers and Thanksgiving food baskets to our clients.

Over the last 15 months, AHCOPA has assisted many households in this area who are appreciative of our varied resources and guidance in helping them purchase their first home or avoid foreclosure.

Having a place to call “home” is something that no one should take for granted. Our life circumstances can change from day to day, undermining a level of stability we think that we have secured with our hard work. Such was the case with Ronald Heard. After a divorce settlement, he found himself both disabled and forced to leave the house where he previously resided. From 2013 to 2016, he had no place to call home. He was not yet receiving disability income and relied on the kind support of family members and friends.

In 2017, after his disability income was received, he went to AHCOPA to see if homeownership was a possibility. His homeownership advisor provided guidance on improving his credit score saving money for the home purchase. After a year of work his advisor recommended him to proceed with pursuing mortgage pre-qualification.

The pre-qualification process proved a bit challenging - his most viable option was a loan offer of only $45,000 from Santander. Such a low amount initially discouraged Ronald, however he soon had a rare breakthrough. While searching for homes with his realtor, they happened upon a house where a for sale sign had just been placed on the porch. Not only was it within his budget, but also in good condition. Ronald’s immediate offer on the property was accepted, and he closed on his home in June 2018.

This new house means that he has a place of his own again – a place to call “home”. His seven children and six grandchildren can now visit and stay overnight, filling his home with love and comfort.

Congratulations Ronald.
Many people may think of homeownership as a dream that is far out of their reach. Lack of knowledge about the process, imperfect finances or reluctance to make such an important commitment can hold us back from even taking the first step. Shakia Jackson’s story is proof of just how far you can go when you decide it is time to move forward.

At the end of 2017, Shakia and her five children were living with her mother. A strong desire for more space and independence prompted her to pursue a change that she had previously believed she could not achieve. She pictured a homeowner as someone with great credit and a large amount of money saved for the down payment. After taking the advice of a family member, Shakia reached out to AHCOPA for assistance in making her dream a reality.

AHCOPA’s first time home buyer program equipped Shakia with an understanding of how the credit system works and awareness of grants and other resources to help her along the way toward purchasing a home. After a few months of saving money and improving her credit, Shakia was pre-qualified for a mortgage and found a home in the Olney/Fern Rock section of Philadelphia.

The emotions Shakia had while under contract included anxiety, excitement, impatience and nervousness. However, Shakia’s children kept her motivated and she found focus after speaking with her homeownership advisor and realtor.

In July 2018, Shakia received the keys to her first home! She was only required to contribute $2,000 towards the down payment and closing costs after securing first-time home buyer grants offered by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Pittsburgh, the City of Philadelphia and Fulton Bank. Her journey dispels many of the myths associated with buying a home.

If you were to ask Patricia Hughes and her son, Christian, to describe living through the potential risk of losing their home to foreclosure, they would use one word – stressful. Thanks to a referral from State Representative Kevin Boyle, they did not have to navigate this process alone after receiving a foreclosure notice on their property. Patricia and Christian arrived at AHCOPA’s Northeast Philadelphia office in October 2017, shortly after our grand opening.

The mother and son were very motivated to persevere in the fight to overcome the threat of foreclosure. Their home was a symbol of the legacy that Patricia’s mother had left behind after her passing a few years ago. Her mother bought the property in 1966, when Patricia was 11 years old. Today, both Patricia and Christian are disabled and have a limited income. Maintaining possession of the home represented not only their emotional ties to the property, but also their financial wellbeing. Modifying the delinquent mortgage would be less than a financial burden than a subpar apartment.

For more than a year, AHCOPA worked to resolve a range of issues that came about during the process of resolving their case. Patricia’s mother was still the official owner of the property. AHCOPA enlisted the help of Community Legal Services to advocate with the lender regarding their ownership rights to the property. Patricia and Christian were also referred to Philadelphia VIP to receive free legal services to prepare the new deed to the property.

With guidance and expertise from these organizations, Patricia and Christian were eventually able to secure a modification from their mortgage company. AHCOPA is proud to stand by our clients, providing the relief that this mother and son now feel after a long season of doubt.
2018 was an impactful and engaging year for AHCOPA - the result of our continuous focus on improvement by expanding our operations, partnerships and opportunities. Below, we have outlined some exciting initiatives for 2019 to provide our clients with excellent housing advisory services and additional resources to support their homeownership goals.

The AHCOPA Community Rating Award
We will acknowledge the caring efforts of lenders and realtors who are serving low to moderate income and minority households by creating programs and guidelines that can increase loan activity among those clients.

Spanish Language Workshops
AHCOPA will launch Spanish language homebuyer workshops at our Northeast Philadelphia office to serve the growing population who prefer Spanish as their first language.

AHCOPA Wealth Builders Webinars
This monthly webinar series will feature our partner professionals sharing their expertise on financial topics of interest.

Home Buyer Fairs
We will organize resource fairs with major mortgage lenders like Wells Fargo and Bank of America to provide more insight on the loan products and other services they offer.
